

“Focus On Your Call” by Kirk Hunt

But when he saw the wind boisterous, he was afraid; and beginning to sink, he cried, saying, Lord, save me.

Matthew 14:30 KJV

Peter asked to be called. After being called, he climbed over the rail and starting walking the naked surface of the Sea of Galilee. For a season, Peter violated the laws of physics, and common sense, just like Jesus.

So what went wrong? Peter had shouted over the wind to Jesus, in the first place. The waves had tossed the ship, before, during and after Peter climbed over the gunwale.

Peter started focusing on the storm. While he focused on the Storm-master, everything went well. Peter started to sink after Jesus stopped being the center of his attention.

There you are, in the middle of building God’s Kingdom. The waves were crashing and the wind howling when the call came, but you answered. With your focus on Jesus, you walked the waves to success for His Kingdom.

It is too easy to be distracted. The cares and concerns of the real world have a way of getting our attention. Sick kids and painful accidents happen to Saints also. The best of us keep our focus on Him, despite the chaos around us.

Peter had courage to get out of the boat. For a time, Peter kept Jesus the focus of his water walk. He has the power you need to walk your waters. No matter what happens, keep your focus on Jesus.

Think: I have to focus on Jesus during my call.

Pray: “Lord, help me keep my focus on You, not my situation.”
